

New Zealand Birds

Each picture draws inspiration from the nation's distinctive birds, with a particular emphasis on the forest habitats that support the iconic kiwi. Every piece is thoughtfully created to celebrate the elegance and beauty of these native birds, offering a sophisticated interpretation of their presence within the country's unique natural settings.

Unique Birds

Blue Penguin

Forest Birds

Sea Birds

Blue Penguins

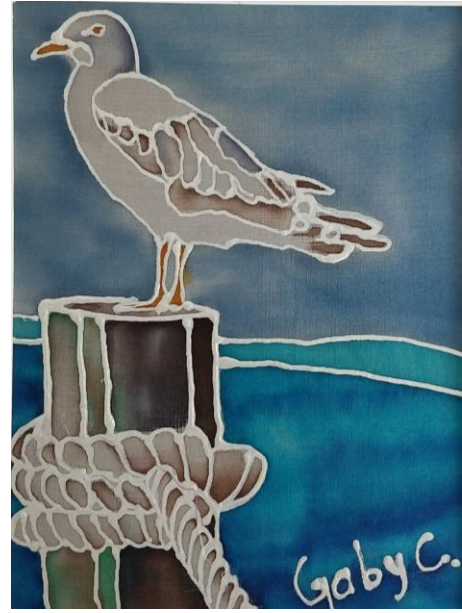

The little blue penguin (kororā),

A symbol of unique ecosystem that can be seen on Timaru beach. It is the only nocturnal penguin species on land and a lesson of adaptability and teamwork over overcoming challenges.

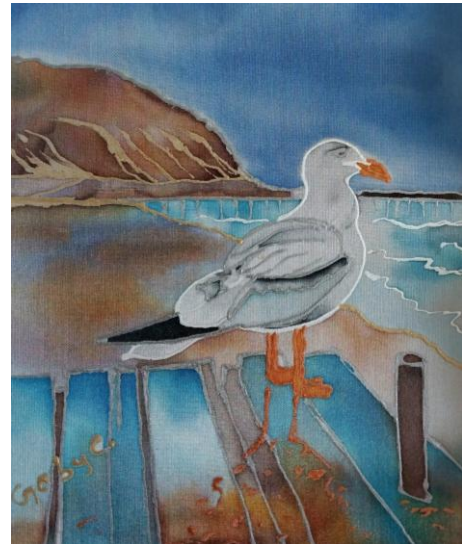

Seabirds

Seagulls are often seen as simple, everyday birds and New Zealand is considered the seabird capital of the world with more than a third of the 80 or so species of seabirds that breed are endemic, or found nowhere else.

Gulls evoke sun, sea and show us how important we are to the universe, allowing us to see things from a higher perspective.

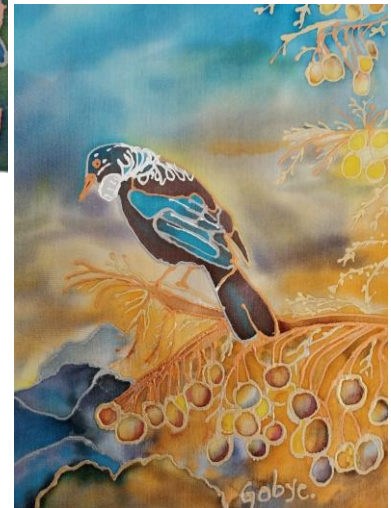

They teach us that real freedom comes from accepting change and moving with life's flow.

Forest Birds

The tūī, is intelligent and has a melodious song.

The Bellbird stands out for its unique yellow feathers and charm of songs.

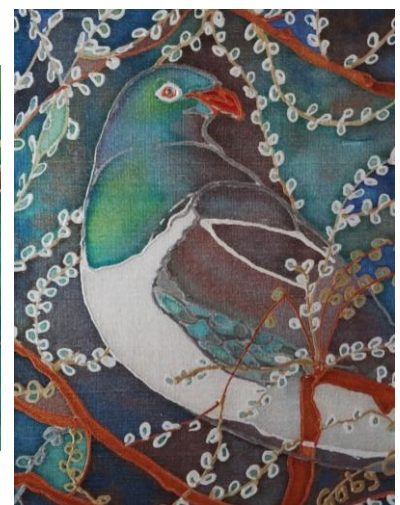

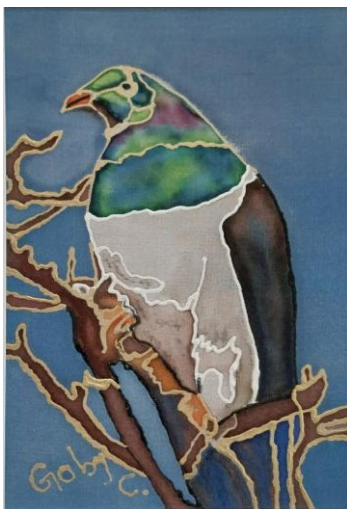

Forest Birds

The delicate and small fantail bird is loved for its flamboyant tail and acrobatic flight.

. Kererū, one of the biggest fruit pigeons in the world, brings a touch of magic to the skies.

Unique Birds

Pukeko, a symbol of unique biodiversity with vivid appearance and bold personality

Takahē, the world's largest living rail, a remarkable conservation story of hope.

Unique Birds

The Kea bird is one of the world's most intelligent parrots, Kaka, never fails to capture attention while Kākāpō, have captured the hearts of many.

Unique Birds

The kiwi has become the best-known national icon for New Zealand, and unofficial national emblem.

Kiwis are beautiful, and unique on this earth in so many ways; , they cannot fly, have hair-like feathers and no tail.

There is nothing else on this planet like the Kiwi.

